

DAVID LOGSDON

David Logsdon runs three portfolios at CompTIA. He is the Senior Director of CompTIA's Space Enterprise Council, Federal Procurement Council, and Federal Cybersecurity Committee. As Federal Cybersecurity Committee Staff Director, he runs a 20-member council focused on connecting leading cybersecurity and information technology companies with key cybersecurity decision makers and stakeholders across the Federal government. Logsdon works closely with Federal departments and agencies, the White House, and Congress, to advocate for sustained Federal investment in cybersecurity and modern commercial capabilities across government and privately-owned critical infrastructure. Logsdon also promotes the adoption of cybersecurity best practices and the prioritization of cybersecurity in the deployment and integration of emerging technologies.

Logsdon holds a Bachelor's Degree from the University of Delaware in Criminal Justice and a Master's Degree from George Washington University in Political Management.
